SINGLE COPIES TEN CENTS

SATHER GATE is background to informational picket line by 400 unionists and students in support of University of California dormitory maids' and janitors' demands for higher pay and job security. UC Non-academic Employees Local 1695 has asked strike sanction as a promised interim raise was not paid. (Story page 8).

Still no food chain offer

After negotiating since mid-December with the food chain industry, seven Bay Area Retail Clerks local unions Monday still had no employer offer on any contract issue—economic or non-economic.

They have extended their contracts from their January expiration date to next Thursday, January 21. Chain store memberships of all seven have authorized strikes, if necessary, and all were asking their local Central Labor Councils for strike sanction.

Negotiations with the Food Employers Council, representing the employers, continued this week at Alameda County Local 870's headquarters. The unions want a $1 per hour raise in a one-year contract and improvements in pensions and other fringe benefits.

The Alameda County Central Labor Council executive committee will act on Local 870's sanction request today. It names 24 employers, including Safeway Stores, Mayfair Markets and Lucky Stores, and other national and area chains.

Carpenters 1622 elects Bardwell

Delbert Bardwell won in a seven-man race for financial secretary and Jewel Ashley was named trustee in Hayward Carpenters Local 1622's election Monday.

Bardwell resigned his trustee post to run for the financial secretary post vacated by the death of Vyril Anderson. Ashley defeated two other contestants for trustee to succeed Bardwell.

Both terms run until the regular local union election in June.

Party for Meade set this afternoon

Alameda County unionists will raise money to pay off Assemblyman Ken Meade's campaign bills at a COPE-sponsored party this evening (Friday, January 15) at the Labor Temple, 2315 Valdez Street, Oakland.

Meade, a Democrat who unseated Republican Assemblyman Don Mulford with COPE's endorsement last fall, wound up with a campaign deficit.

Tickets to the fund raiser are $5 a person, available at the Central Labor Council or at the door. The event will be held from 5 to 9 p.m. in Hall M on the third floor of the Labor Temple.

Reagan judge bans county strikers' suit

The union members who struck two county hospitals four years ago were on a legal merrygo-round this week after a Reagan-appointed judge denied them the right to sue the county—on the same grounds which were overruled by the District Court of Appeals last year.

Superior Judge Gordon Minder, named to the bench in November, 1968 by Governor Reagan, upheld the county's contention that the unionists could not sue because their strike was illegal.

The labor suit challenged the county's refusal to implement the board of supervisors' strike-ending agreement. The board had agreed in an emergency ordinance to return the more than 300 strikers to work without loss of benefits after the strike.

Instead, the county re-employed strikers as new and probationary employees with loss of sick leave, seniority, vacation and retirement rights. There were long delays in rehiring some.

A superior court ruling threw out the suit on grounds the strike

Carpenters 36 to vote next Friday; poll hours change

Four candidates are seeking the office of financial secretary and there will be contests for treasurer and trustee in Carpenters Local 36's special election next Friday, January 22.

Polls will be open from 12 noon to 8 p.m. at the union headquarters, 8460 Enterprise Way, Oakland, instead of the previously announced noon to 10 p.m. voting schedule. The change was made in a special dispensation by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters & Joiners in approving a local bylaws change.

Candidates to succeed Financial Secretary Melvin Johnson, who died November 11, are R. E. Bertaud, who resigned as trustee to run; Gerald Knabe, a steward; Wilson Massey, who resigned as treasurer to enter the race, and former Local 36 President Harry Yetter.

Contesting for treasurer are former Treasurer Lonnie Moore and Junius Porter.

Candidates for trustee are Paul Makela, an Alameda Building Trades Council delegate, and Richard Roff, a steward.

Now it's a 9-year joblessness mark

(Labor calls for full employment "game plan," page 7)

Four days after President Nixon again predicted times were about to get better, his Labor Department disclosed that nationwide unemployment reached 6 per cent in December for the first time in nine years.

Nixon told television reporters January 4 that 1971 would be a good year and 1972 (an election year) would be "a very good year." The December unemployment data was disclosed January 8.

In California, December joblessness was at the same high 7 per cent mark of November.

The Bay Area's unemployment rate went up to 5.9 per cent from 5.6 per cent in November and 4.1 per cent in December, 1969.

The new U.S. jobless rate meant 4,600,000 persons were hunting work, more than a 75 per cent increase over a year earlier when the unemployed totalled 2,600,000.

Nixon, apparently stung by the failure of his administration's economists' predictions that joblessness would drop, announced a $2,600,000,000 tax incentive plan for business to improve the economy.

The AFL-CIO had called for full employment measures, including government's role as "last resort" employer of hardcore jobless instead of "trickle-down" business tax benefits. Nixon has vetoed a bill to create 1,000,000 public service jobs.

Joblessness was anywhere from 15 to 30 per cent and over in the building trades.

Health care hearings due

On a labor representative's motion, a citizen's study group on county health care will ask the people to tell their health care needs and problems at public hearings.

The Alameda County Health Care Services Agency Study Commission was established as an advisory group to "review, react and comment" on matters related to it from a management consultant firm study of measures for efficiency and economy in the new consolidation of county health services.

Alameda County Central Labor Council Assistant Secretary Ed Collins told the council this week that he had successfully moved in the commission to hold public hearings. He is the council's commission representative.

He urged unions and individuals to be ready to attend hearings, when they are set, and tell

Auto Painters, Sheet Metal 355 strike in Hayward

One hundred - forty members of two unions struck the Gillig Manufacturing Company in Hayward last week after rejecting a company offer of less than half the union's modified proposal on pay.

Strikers at the school bus manufacturing firm are members of Sheet Metal Production Workers Local 355 and Auto, Marine & Specialty Painters Local 1176.

In joint negotiations to replace a joint contract expiring January 1, they asked 50 cent per hour raises in each year of a three-year agreement, plus cost of living raises with no minimum or maximum in the last two contract years based on the Bay Area consumer price index.

Union representatives estimated the union's total cost of living raise proposal at 28 cents per hour.

Management offered 35 cents more per hour in the first contract year and 20 cents in each of the last two years, plus a 6-cent per hour maximum cost of living increase in the second and third year.

Negotiations continued this week in San Francisco with help of a federal mediator.

the commission what they believe is needed in health care.

He noted his preliminary conclusion that county hospitals and private hospitals furnishing contract service to the county are located far apart, leaving big gaps in service areas.

The county last year consolidated administration of Highland and Fairmont County Hospitals, mental health facilities and other county health services in one Health Care Services Agency.

It hired the management consultant firm of Griffenhagen-Kroeger, Inc., to study the operation. The study commission is to be an advisory body to Dr. James Malcolm, who heads the consolidated health agency as director of health care services. He is to bring to the study group matters referred to him by the management consultants.

Some injury traps in the home

By SIDNEY MARGOLIUS
Labor Journal Consumer Expert

The most dangerous object around your home in the winter is probably a heater or furnace, a new survey of the Food & Drug Administration's Product Safety Office has found.

The FDA now keeps track of the most hazardous products through a system of recording injuries reported by hospitals throughout the country.

The first report is very revealing. It shows both the needlessness of some of these product-associated accidents, and the hazards of some popular new products on the market.

IN HOUSEHOLD products, as well as furnaces and heaters, many accidents involve storm doors, sun lamps and snow blowers. In sports equipment, skis the leading source of product-associated accidents, followed by ice skates and sleds.

But what's especially significant is that the new snowmobiles already have become a leading source of injuries, surpassing toboggans.

Two kinds of accidents frequently result from heating devices, the new FDA analysis shows. Space heaters and floor heaters account for many burns, while explosions or backflashes occur with both space heaters and central heating systems.

Sometimes people forget about the high temperatures of floor furnace grates and walk on them with bare feet. Children often burn themselves from falling on grates.

In one case reported by the Office of Product Safety, a two-year-old girl suffered severe burns when she tripped and fell on a grate.

It was in the middle of an archway between the living and dining rooms, with little space to walk around it.

Unfortunately, in many homes such well-traveled locations as an archway or the center of a room are chosen for placement of a floor-furnace grate because they also provide the best heat distribution.

Space heaters also can be dangerous and especially to kids. A five-year-old boy who had just been bathed and was standing in front of a space heater backed into it and suffered severe burns.

ANOTHER DANGER from space heaters is that they often have make-shift fuel storage and supply arrangements, resulting in explosions and backflashes, the FDA's product safety experts report. But central heating systems, too, can have these hazards.

Central heating system explosions most often occur with gas-operated furnaces when a homeowner is attempting to relight the pilot light. Often converted furnaces do not have directions prominently posted or they are hard to understand.

Converted furnaces in general do not seem to be as safe as furnaces originally designed for gas operation.

Another widespread hazard is from glass storm doors and glass patio doors, an especially needless source of injuries since safety glass can be used at little more cost.

In one recent case reported by FDA, a three-year-old boy who had been running in and out of the house with some friends, crashed into the lower glass panel of an aluminum storm door. He fell to the ground bleeding from a laceration on his chest and was dead on arrival at the hospital.

Such doors really should have grilles across the lower panel, especially if you have small children. There have been too many horrible accidents from kids running into storm doors and glass patio doors to take any chances. Grilles are easy to install. Even the decals sometimes recommended to provide a visual warning are not enough.

The danger from sun lamps is in using one too long with resultant burns or eye injuries. One young woman suffered impaired vision for more than two weeks when she neglected to keep her eyes closed while talking on the phone and using the lamp, the FDA reports.

A MAN SUFFERED ultra-violet burns of both eyes while using a sun lamp and watching TV. Another received severe burns when he fell asleep while using a sun lamp only 18 inches away, the FDA reports.

If you live where it snows and use a snow blower this winter, the high incidence of injuries is a clear warning that you had better be careful. Most of the snow blower injuries follow a similar pattern. The victims try to clear the chute without turning off the machine completely. In one case an impeller blade caught the glove of a man clearing the chute and pulled his hand into the chute.

One man's glove caught in the chain drive while he was engaging the clutch on a snow blower. Another man removed a protective guard to dislodge snow in the chute. But the impeller blade had not stopped rotating. As in the other snow-blower accidents, he suffered finger amputations and fractures.

SNOWMOBILES already have become a major hazard. In a case reported by FDA, a man rode one down an incline at 40 to 50 miles an hour and then came to a rise, causing the front end to become airborne. As it came down, one of the skis momentarily dug into the snow. The machine flipped end over end.

Undoubtedly some of the many product-related accidents that abound in modern life are due to careless use. But many others are due to thoughtless or faulty design. Far-sighted design even could guard against some forms of carelessness.

One of many examples of how manufacturers often fail to adequately protect against foreseeable hazards is the electric food mixer recently cited in FDA Papers by Carol Young of that agency.

The manufacturer located the on-off switch so it would be immediately under the user's thumb. That's convenient. But injuries have occurred from accidental activation of the beat-

Senator Warren D. Magnuson of Washington plans to introduce a bill soon to require safety standards for hazardous products. But until the bill becomes law, if it does, and until standards can be established, don't take for granted that because a product is on the market the manufacturer necessarily has tried to make it as safe as it can be.

Getting Your Money's Worth

Tests and rating by Consumers Union of 34 T-shirt models showed polyester-cotton blends are appreciably more durable than all-cottons.

The blends were better able to keep their resistance to bursting and tearing throughout 40 launderings and kept the strength of their armhole and collar seams better, says Consumer Reports, CU's monthly.

The January-issue rating report concludes that "the blends, as a class, kept their looks and their strength better than did the all-cotton T-shirts."

THE MAGAZINE says that none of the tested T-shirts shrank, stretched, or otherwise changed shape to an objectionable degree.

All were sturdy enough to survive 40 machine washings and dryings, following manufacturer's instructions, although the low-ranked models "looked somewhat the worse for the ordeal," the report says.

Prices of the tested shirts ranged from a bit under $1 to $2. CU, the independent product-rating organization, says that T-shirts have been out-selling sleeveless undershirts by about 2 to 1.

THEY SAY that talk and advice are cheap because the supply usually exceeds the demand. Following this rule, why would someone in the middle of a city pay 45 cents per ounce for water?

Consumer Reports took a look at Estee Lauder Fresh Mineral Water Spray, selling for $5 in an 11-ounce can. The label describes the contents as coming from "one of the world's purest sources."

Water from the same spring in Deer Park, Maryland, sells for about 75 cents a gallon, the consumer magazine notes. The spray can's water, described as "a morning refresher, a skin stimulator, and a complexion relaxer," sells at the rate of more than $57 a gallon.

Now, what was that about the "law" of supply and demand?

Inflation will cost Medicare patients

Hospital care inflation will take about 15 per cent more from the meager cash of retired persons this year than last, they learned when they got their December Social Security checks.

Enclosed with the checks was a notice from the Social Security Administration of raises in cost to recipients of four kinds of Medicare services.

"The law requires an annual review of the cost of providing hospital services," said the government. "When those costs go up, the amounts you pay when you are a patient must be increased to help keep the program financially sound."

The 1970 cost review showed hospital increases translated into higher costs for those receiving care, as follows:

• For the first 60 days in a hospital, $60 instead of the former $52.

• For the sixty-first through 90th day in the hospital, $15 a day instead of $13.

For lifetime reserve days, $30 a day instead of $26.

• For the twenty-first through 100th day in extended care, $7.50 a day instead of $6.50.

If it was any consolation to the hardpressed oldsters, the government said it was paying more this year too but didn't tell them how much.

Poor Hamlet: he had no stock in Texaco, Inc.

The late Prince Hamlet, of Elsinore Castle, Denmark, was a melancholy young man because of what can be conservatively described as severe personal problems.

If he were still around, he might not be so melancholy. That is because Texaco is being nice to Denmark's economy by building big tankers there.

Texaco's latest and largest tanker is the Texaco Denmark, which recently was delivered to the company's fleet at Elsinore Roads.

It is a 255,000 deadweight ton job built at the Lindo yard of Odense Steel Shipyard, Ltd. Two more of the same huge size are being built at the same yard.

THAT'S A lot of tonnage not being built in U.S. yards by U.S. craftsmen who have been known often to turn in at the sign of the Texaco Star, believing the commercials which say you can trust your car to the man who wears the star.

Of course, those of these skilled craftsmen who are unemployed are not buying a lot of gasoline at the sign of the star or elsewhere.

Having built Liberty ships myself and remembering them as being about 450 feet long, I am impressed with the Texaco Denmark's measurements—1,132 feet long, 170 foot beam, a depth of 84 feet, 65 feet, 6 inches of which is draft.

That is really a lot of ship being built in Denmark.

TEXACO also is being nice to Spain's economy. It has ordered two even larger tankers—261,000 deadweight tons each—to Astilleros y Talleres del Noroeste, S.A., which will build them at Perlio, Estuary of Ferrol del Caudillo, Spain.

Texaco has also turned in an order for one 225,000 deadweight ton vessel to Kockums Mekaniska Verkstads A.B. of Malmo, Sweden. Kockums, etc., has built other ships for Texaco.

Texaco, Inc., which has placed these orders through its subsidiary, Texaco Overseas Tankship Limited, does not discuss shipyard wages in Spain, Sweden or Denmark in its stockholder publication, which is the source of this data.

But it is certain that Spanish workers don't make a great deal since Spain is a dictatorship where unions are frowned on, strikes are unlawful and nobody is free except, of course, the wealthy uppercrust—if the latter keep their noses clean.

Swedes and Danes live in democracies with labor movements, so they must have it better than Spaniards. Americans in what is still a democracy where—so far—they are free to have unions, bargain and strike, make more money than anybody.

CORRECTION: Texaco makes more money than almost anybody.

those who disagree with it, with aid of "an extremely friendly press."

San Francisco, Sacramento and Los Angeles Bar Associations urged Reagan not to veto the grant. The Alameda County Bar Association, however, delayed action until Thursday of this week. Association President Calvin Goforth said he hoped to get hold of Uhler's report.

Among supporters of CRLA was the California Labor Federation, which wired Reagan and federal OEO Director Frank Carlucci that discontinuance of CRLA would "seriously aggravate the present social crisis in California."

CRLA pointed to its successful legal actions for food aid to the needy, to overrule Reagan's 1967 MediCal service cuts, to enforce minimum wage payment to 50,000 women farm workers, its day to day representation of poor people in problems with creditors and landlords and other achievements.

Reagan, said CRLA spokesmen, doesn't want the poor to have the same kind of legal service the rich can afford.

Labor has one voice in welfare probe

A task force, with one labor representative and the remainder named by business, city mayors and other agencies, was to hold its first meeting this week to start the welfare study directed by the board of supervisors.

At full strength, the group will total 15, but the city of Fremont and the county welfare commission had not yet nominated representatives last week, and two members are to be named by the 13 original members.

The board voted in October to establish a task force to probe a nine-point "area of inquiry" covering costs, administration, alleged fraud and abuses and "any areas of welfare administration not covered by the above eight points."

Labor's representative is Assistant Secretary Ed Collins of the Central Labor Council.

In nominating Collins for the investigative body, Labor Council Executive Secretary Richard K. Groulx said he "noted with interest" the establishment of the welfare study group.

Staff services are to be furnished by the California Taxpayers Association and Groulx told the board in his letter that labor "questioned the neutrality" of utilizing the association's services.

The county Taxpayer's Association disclosed that it would be represented in the probe by one of its board members, Charles C. Kehrlein. Kehrlein was nominated by the Metropolitan Oakland Conference, a downtown business organization of which he is chairman.

The local Taxpayer's Association told its members that when the task force files its progress report and recommendations by May 1, "at least it may pinpoint the cause even if we can't cut the cost materially."

The area of inquiry includes whether social workers are attempting to serve clients through "extra legal means," whether state welfare regulations can be changed and how the county can cut costs without violating state and federal rules.

It makes no specific mention of social workers' charges that welfare financial woes result from mismanagement by the county.

Besides Collins and Kehrlein, the other task force appointees are Lillian Baranco and George Horton, Oakland; Mrs. Burrell Grigsby, Newark; Richard Haas, Berkeley; Charles Heath, Bay Area Social Planning Council; Lawrence Kelly, former Piedmont city councilman; Tom Neveu, Hayward councilman; Leon Rimov, Albany, and Frances Rousseau, Union City.

Clerk Jack Pool of the board of supervisors wrote the task force members last week suggesting that they get their probe underway this week.

New minority class deadline

The deadline for applications for the University of California's second six-month leadership training course for minority unionists has been extended to January 31, the UC center for Labor Research & Education announced last week.

The extension from the original date of next Monday was decided on to permit more black and brown union members to apply, Director Pete Guidry said. The course will begin March 1.

Applications are available at local unions, Central Labor Councils and other labor bodies or from the UC Labor Center, 2521 Channing Way, Berkeley, telephone 642-0203.

The course, like the first minority leadership class which was completed last September, is financed by a Ford Foundation grant.

Students will study traditional labor subjects such as labor history, labor law, grievances, arbitration, economics and union administration and also will emphasize labor's role in ending ethnic tensions.

The course, sponsored by AFL-CIO, Teamster, ILWU and other labor groups, will pinpoint how labor can help cure inter-group strife and separatism by fostering job development, training, education, health care and community development.

Students will receive support to enable them to take leaves from their jobs while fringe benefit payments are maintained.

Criteria for selection are membership in black or brown minorities and union activity.

The UC Labor Center aims at an enrollment of 25 unionists in the second course.

Reagan hits legal aid agency

Governor Reagan last week sent the federal Office of Economic Opportunity an 8,600-page document—equal to 20 good-sized novels—in support of his veto of California Rural Legal Aid's $1,800,000 allocation to fight poor people's battles.

OEO can overrule the governor's veto. His 8,600 page "documentation" was the governor's back-up to a 283-page report, featuring such charges as that a CRLA attorney visited Soledad Prison on behalf of the "Soledad Brothers" and suggested that an inmate suppress evidence or commit perjury.

The Soledad Brothers are three black convicts charged with killing a guard.

The governor's claim is "categorically, totally untrue," said Martin Glick, CRLA litigation director.

The original report was prepared by Reagan's state OEO director, Lewis K. Uhler, an admitted former Birch Society member.

The Uhler report, calling CRLA "the poverty-law establishment," accused CRLA of "harrassing"

High joblessness is an old, old story in Oakland

The kind of high unemployment affecting the nation as the third year of the Nixon administration began is an old story to Oakland.

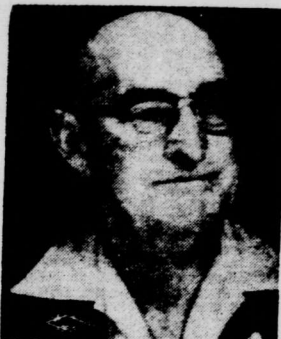

Oakland's joblessness was measured at 7.9 per cent in 1960 and 8.4 per cent in 1966, qualifying it as a "persistent unemployment" area.

A spokesman for the state Human Resources Department research and statistics office said there had been no indication of reason to take it off the "persistent" classification since 1966 and "if anything, it got worse."

A state statistician said Oakland's problem was that of the central cities in general—high concentration of lower-skilled, low-income workers including minorities.

"Persistent unemployment," computed from census data and analysis of area and local trends, means a jobless rate of 50 per cent or more above the nationwide rate for three of the last four years or 75 per cent higher in two of the last three years or 100 per cent more in one of the last two years.

The Labor Department December list of major "substantial" unemployment areas—meaning a 6 per cent or higher rate—increased by one to a total of 37 while smaller areas of substantial joblessness increased by six to 617.

Steamfitters 342

BY JAMES H. MARTIN

A very large turnout of our membership, the business managers and business representatives of our Sister Local Unions were on hand to welcome Assistant General President Martin J. Ward as our Union's installing officer. Mr. Ward's address was very well received, high-pointing his appreciation in naming our Apprenticeship & Training Center after him.

The Representatives of our Sister Local Unions congratulated our officers and membership, emphasizing the good relationship that has always existed between the various Unions and ours.

Business Representatives Doyle Williams and Bob Beeson, as well as myself, also addressed the members thanking them for re-electing us to office. Our remarks outlined the future progress of the Union, and briefly, what has transpired in the past. Following the installation of officers, a buffet was served for members and guests.

The Executive Board of the Union will also meet on this same date and same location with the meeting convening at 7 p.m.

On behalf of the members of Steamfitters' Local 342, we wish to thank both Marty Ward and the Sister Local Union Representatives for their attendance.

Our next membership meeting will be held on Thursday, February 4, and will be a special-called meeting for the purpose of taking action on the Building & Improvements and Officers meeting recommendations.

See you at the meeting!

Carpenters Auxiliary 160

BY BARBARA LINDER

Hi Ladies:

I hope this first column of the new year finds each and everyone of you and your families in excellent health. It is now time to get back to work on our many projects for the remainder of the year.

I recently received a letter from the president of the State Council of Ladies Auxiliaries, Mona Mansfield, in which she stated: "At the beginning of each New Year we always firmly resolve to do better and to be better. As Auxiliaries and Auxiliary members I think we too should make some resolutions. Let us resolve to attend every Auxiliary meeting and every District meeting. Let us resolve never to say 'our Auxiliary never does anything' or 'our Auxiliary meetings aren't interesting' because what we are really saying is 'I never do anything' or 'I don't make our Auxiliary meetings interesting.' Each one of us is the Auxiliary, and that Auxiliary is only as active and interesting as each one of us makes it."

"Let us resolve not to criticize or find fault with one another, but rather let us encourage our sister and look for her good points. Granted, we are busy, but if we can find time for other organizations, surely we can find time for the organization that supports our family."

I would like to add one thought to Sister Mona's letter and it is primarily directed to the wives, sisters and mothers of Carpenters and not members of the Auxiliary. During the next few weeks resolve to come to an Auxiliary meeting and meet us. We have many interesting and enjoyable members and we are interested in meeting YOU. We need more help at each meeting as we serve refreshments to the men who attend the Carpenters meetings.

At the end of last year I neglected to inform you ladies of the total of Cents-Off Coupons I have received for the year 1970. I was very happy with the number of coupons I received from many of you. The total was $523.89. Please keep them coming during 1971.

Barbers 134

BY JACK M. REED

Brothers, as one of your delegates, I attended the Northern Area Council meet in Corte Madera last Sunday. From reports given, the State Barber Board Examination is in for some changes. The minimum price law is up for review and there seems to be a thought that our present administration will rule them unconstitutional. However, if they do, then our fair trade laws and perhaps the state minimum hourly wage should also be ruled unconstitutional inasmuch as they all have the same purpose, recognizing that it takes a certain amount of money to make a living.

A locally (Bay Area) held Hair Style Competition to select an entrant in the Gold Cup competition, either from each local or from the Bay Area, was discussed and notices will be sent to each local to send a committee to attend.

Our State Association Legislative Advocates gave a report on pending Barber bills in Sacramento. Will definitely oppose bill to issue special barber license to mentally retarded people to be used on State and Federal land only. No cookies! Not now! Not later! Not ever!

The finance committee and I would like to thank all the members who sent their books in for audit. The response was great, and very few books were not checked. They were mailed back to you last Sunday. As voted upon ALL UNION SHOPS WILL BE CLOSED SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 13th.

ATTENTION: All members whose Unemployment Insurance Benefits have run out. There might still be an additional 13 weeks of unemployment insurance available to you.

To be eligible, you must: 1. Be an unemployed person after December 20, 1970, and your Benefit Year must end after December 20, 1970. 2. You must have received all your regular unemployment insurance payments.

The extended benefit period begins December 20, 1970, and we would strongly urge all members, who have been on unemployment insurance during the past year and have drawn the maximum available to you and are unemployed after December 20, 1970 to immediately make application for extended unemployment insurance benefits.

The work situation has been getting steadily worse. At the present time, we have 205 Journeymen's cards on the "out of work" list. We also have approximately 25 apprentices out of work.

Item 9 Section 2 of the Addenda to the Standard Form of Union Agreement states: The union may deny requests for overtime employment to job site new construction personnel at such time as there is 10 percent of the union's personnel excluding personnel normally employed by the shipyards unemployed. The provisions of the section may be enforced 72 hours after verification of the above conditions with the Association's representative.

Starting Tuesday, January 19, 1971 overtime will be cut off. This excludes emergency work and shop work as well.

We wish to commend all members who see any other craft doing our work and notifies this office. This especially refers to estimators, superintendents, foremen, detailers, or take off men who notify us before the job has progressed to a point where some other craft has already been assigned the work. With our unemployment as it is now, we need any and all leads that we can to secure more work for our members.

There are times when some of our members are injured on the job and fail to report it to some responsible person from the company. By doing so, their claim with the insurance company will be held up and possibly voided if there are no witnesses to the injury. For your benefit, please notify your company and fill out the necessary insurance forms as it may save you many legal problems.

Notice for all members, Washington's Birthday will be celebrated on February 15, and not on the usual February 22.

Eugene V. Thompson, one of our members, broke his wrist and will be off work 10 weeks or more.

Harvey Fallis, a retired member, had an attack and is confined to the Veteran's Hospital in Livermore.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: IS IT PROGRESS IF A CANNIBAL USES A KNIFE AND FORK?

Regular meetings are held on the third Wednesday of each month, 8 p.m., Labor Temple, 2315 Valdez Street, Oakland.

Members of the Tri-State Council Death Benefit Plan please note that Death Benefit No. 686 is now due and payable.

Watchmakers 101

BY GEORGE F. ALLEN

We sincerely hope that the start of your New Year is a lot better than ours.

First:—We sincerely hope that those members who have claims awaiting to be processed for benefits, etc., will bear with us for the time being. The only person authorized to sign Insurance checks, Mrs. Alice Belisle, is at the present time home with shingles. We do not have many claims waiting to be paid, however, inasmuch as our claims are always paid so promptly, we felt that an explanation for the present delay was due those members entitled to benefits.

Having had the experience myself several years ago with a siege of shingles, I can extend my sincere sympathy to Alice and knowing we have a very understanding membership, we are certain they share our sympathy. We hope that Alice will soon recover and her smiling face will once again be seen in the office on each Monday.

Secondly:—the building which we have occupied and is "home" to us, has been purchased by the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency. The buildings have been being torn down all around us for some time and we have had our fingers crossed.

However, this past week, we received Official notice that our building is among those scheduled for depletion. So — after over 27 years in the same location, we are looking for a new home. We do not have to move tomorrow, however, in view of the fact that they are only required to give us 90 days' notice prior to requesting that we vacate, we are presently in the process of endeavoring to find suitable quarters. We will keep you advised on this. HAPPY NEW YEAR— Hum!

SAN FRANCISCO MEMBER-SHIP MEETING: The next membership meeting will be held on Thursday, January 21, 1971 at 7:30 p.m. — Union Office, 693 Mission Street, Room 707, San Francisco.

Printing Specialties Union

BY FREDRICK T. SULLIVAN

There will be a special election for Vice President of the International Union on January 20, 1971. The vote will be conducted on a chapel basis under the direction of each Business Agent and the Shop Committee in the plant.

The delegates to the District Council took some important steps at the January meeting. They voted to continue the investigation on the question of merging our union with other Specialty Unions in Northern California. The committees that have been selected in each local union to investigate merger will hold a meeting at the union hall and investigate the feasibility of merger. This meeting is scheduled for Friday, January 15.

After much deliberation and discussion, the delegates voted unanimously to pass on to the membership the increases that have been voted at the last two International Union Conventions on the per capita tax paid to the International Union. In 1964 the Convention raised the per capita tax 15 cents and in the 1968 Convention a 50 cent increase was voted. For the past six years our union has been taking this increase from our General Fund and not requiring the members to pay the extra amount. Now, because we are again back in the Western Conference of Specialty Unions and must resume paying a per capita tax to that organization, and because we have had two plant shutdowns, we do not have the funds coming into the General Fund to cover all of these expenses, therefore all dues must be increased by 65 cents per month.

U.C. EMPLOYEES 371

Our next regular meeting will be held on February 13, 1971, at 2 p.m. in Room 155, Kroeber Hall. It will be preceded by the Executive Board Meeting. The new officers have been installed so let's give them our support.

Millmen's 550

BY ARSIE BIGBY

MEMBERSHIP INFORMATION

Some time ago (after several months of discussions) the Employer and Union Health and Welfare and Pension Plan Trustees and Committeemen decided to close the Mill Cabinet Trust office at 220 14th Street, Oakland, and have this Trust administered by the Northern California Carpenters Trust Funds Corporation, 995 Market Street, San Francisco, California, phone 986-4736.

As the result of this resolution the transition of the administrative duties were begun immediately on a piece-meal basis, so as to avoid as many problems as possible.

The total transition was completed and the Oakland Trust office was closed on December 31, 1970.

The transition is said to have gone well for the most part. However, I do understand that the January 1971 eligibility list has not been compiled as yet, and therefore the ineligible notifications have not been sent out. I understand the reason for this delay was that some of the files the Oakland office needed to get the job done were already transferred to the Carpenters Trust office and they (the Carpenters) needed the same files to carry on some of their work in connection with the Millmen's Trust.

Because of this temporary hangup I would advise any employees who failed to work for one employer 64 or more hours in the month of November 1970, to send in your own premium payment "now" and not wait for the ineligible notification to come in the mail. By then you might not be able to get your premium into the Trust Office on time, to avoid becoming ineligible.

The following questions and answers are in response to recent inquiries:

(1) Q. What members are covered for the $2,000 life insurance under the Mill Cabinet Trust Health and Welfare Plan?

A. Those eligible for benefits under the active plan.

(2) Q. What members are eligible for the $600 death donation from the International?

Vets -- and everyone -- need a real job policy

Two documents are at hand, one from the White House and the other from the Department of Labor, which bear on the sad state of America's economy.

One is President Nixon's announcement that he is launching a Jobs for Veterans Program. He calls on business, labor, veterans groups and state and local governments to lend their support to finding jobs for Viet Nam veterans.

"The nation must make full use of its talents and ambitions of these fine young people," says the President.

The other document is the Labor Department's report that nationwide unemployment in December continued to climb, hitting a nine-year high.

This is the result of Nixon's futile "anti-inflation" slow-down of the economy.

We are all for jobs for veterans, who are among the hardest hit by Nixon-caused unemployment.

But, whatever high level appeals the President makes, they will continue to be hurt by joblessness—and so will the rest of the labor force—until he shifts gears and points at full employment.

CRLA issue is rights of poor to quality representation

Governor Reagan is now throwing everything handy—including the Soledad Brothers—at California Rural Legal Assistance in an effort to shore up his veto of that valuable agency's funding.

His claim that CRLA attorneys visited Soledad Prison and attempted to suborn perjury on behalf of the three accused of murdering a guard should be greeted with skepticism.

That charge was part of a new document, completed after the veto had stirred wide protest in labor, the community and Congress. Its late appearance on the scene is reason for question—if not disbelief.

CRLA, let us remind the governor, has obtained such rights as payment of minimum wages, elimination of school testing which discriminated against the Spanish-speaking, a water supply for an Indian reservation, food for the needy.

It proved in court that the governor's $2,000,000 cut in MediCal services in 1967 was illegal—which explains the governor's hostility to CRLA.

CRLA, let the governor be reminded, represents regularly and effectively the rural poor in their problems with landlords and creditors.

Whatever the governor thinks of CRLA, the courts take a different view. Of its 749 court or administrative cases last year, it won 605 for an .860 batting average.

If judges and administrative referees find CRLA right that much of the time, CRLA must be effectively representing the poor who are its clients.

The governor complains that CRLA indulges in "class actions"—like its suit which threw out his MediCal cuts. He says CRLA should concentrate on representing individual litigants.

But, even here the governor's criticism fails to stand up in the face of facts.

CRLA handled 55 class actions last year and took on the legal problems of individuals in 18,768 cases.

That really nullifies the governor's complaint. But of course it won't silence him because basically he opposes first-class legal service for the poor.

As long as CRLA exists he will have to watch his step every time he considers cutting out some service or other for the unfortunate. CRLA will bring him up short, and he knows it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Open mind in Davis case

Editor, Labor Journal:

Angela Davis will be in the news for some time to come. I hope Union members will be fair and open minded enough not to pre-judge her on the basis of J. Edgar Hoover's hysterical and senile comments.

Reagan and the regents were understandably furious when the Supreme Court ruled they could not fire Miss Davis purely on the basis of her admitted membership in the Communist Party. Old J. Edgar must have been equally incensed, as he is the oldest living "red-baiter," having made a life's career of hunting reds.

They are enemies of Labor and of working people, Reagan and Hoover are, along with Reagan's Regents, Nixon and the FBI. The same forces that seek to crucify Angela have always been the enemies of working people.

Wage-earners are people who actually earn their incomes. The enemy is the corporation owner who does not earn his income but profits from the work of wage-earners. The enemy is the profiteer and his political stooges who make laws for his benefit, or interpret the laws to give him tax "loopholes" for instance.

We need to be skeptical about the charges against Angela Davis when we realize these charges come from the enemies of all working people. The breed of cat that wants to chop off militant Black leadership also knocks off militant Union leadership even if it happens to be white. Our Country can't afford to have the whole world see a "legal lynching" here.

Not influenced by TV

Editor, Labor Journal:

Regarding Unruh's not winning because he did not have the backing of enough financial persons to buy TV spots. I just want to tell you I disagree with you.

We have four TVs in our house and not once do I ever look at TV. Being a registered democrat, I vote for either party, whom I want, and feel would do a better job. It does not matter to me who endorses the person.

Also regarding Mrs. McDonald's letter of unemployed persons being on welfare, it pleases me to know the people needing help are receiving the aid. Don't feel so bad now knowing people that really need it are getting helped.

I see so many people coming to our country, not being citizens work at Federal and Government jobs and many go on welfare here, while in Mexico they own businesses or farms.

These people can also afford to go to Mexico during winter here and spend the whole winter in Mexico. Yet these people even get free medical services of any kind.

A friend of mine who is a credentialed teacher here of Mexican decent, but an American citizen, decided he would like to teach in Mexico. Went over applied and was refused a job, because he was not a citizen of Mexico. They told him they take care of their own first.

And here our government does nothing but give out handouts. That is why so many migrate over here. Lets take care of our own first and send the others back to let their government take care of them.

Labor demands full employment 'game plan'

The AFL-CIO called on President Nixon to abandon his "game plan," which has added joblessness to inflation, and start 1971 with a new one aimed at full employment.

Nixon's promised "mini expansion" isn't enough, AFL-CIO President George Meany charged. The "game plan" for Nixon's first two years has "flopped," he added bluntly.

Meany also served notice that workers would ask "their full share at the bargaining table" this year to make up for losses to inflation.

Labor will ask Congress to raise the $1.65 an hour minimum wage at least to $2, he declared.

He cited an increase of 2,000,000 unemployed during the past year, shrinking job opportunities, real earnings below the levels of five years ago, and lack of housing at prices most people can afford.

"The only real game plan for America is full employment," Meany stressed.

The cornerstone of Meany's New Year statement is full employment repairing the tax revenue base that has been eroded by the present recession and generating the consumer purchasing power needed to keep the economy going.

It calls for faster growth in the available money supplies and substantially lower interest rates.

Cutting interest rates, Meany noted, would bring down prices and "end the great idiocy of the times—soaring bank profits at a time of general recession."

Labor's program calls also for full funding of federal programs, especially those that would provide jobs for workers and set the economy back on its feet.

Meany charged the Administration with fostering "economic stagnation by its restricted appropriation requests and veto policy."

He warned that the cities "stand on the brink of fiscal disaster. They need immediate full funding of federal programs for housing, community facilities, education, health care, anti-pollution and urban transportation."

Job training and other needed programs must be accompanied by an acceptance of "the government's responsibility to be the employer of last resort," the AFL-CIO declared.

UC maids strike OK asked

University of California Non-academic Employees Local 1695 this week asked Alameda County Central Labor Council sanction for a UC strike as the university failed to implement an agreed-on interim pay raise for dormitory maids and janitors.

Meanwhile, Local 1695 met with UC representatives, seeking implementation of the raise.

More than 400 members of several unions and students staged an informational picket line last week in support of the union demands.

Local 1695 has been negotiating since October in face of UC "austerity" in line with Governor Reagan's "cut, squeeze and trim" policy. The union wants the dormitory employees given pay parity with custodians and matrons in university academic buildings.

UC Employees Local 371 representing 300 custodians and matrons, meanwhile, reported university agreement on a 5 per cent pay raise retroactive to July 1 and a first-ever UC promise to sign an agreement.

A pay formula governing future raises is to be submitted to two persons chosen by the university and the union for decision.

Local 1695 said UC came part of the way on wages in November, agreeing to the yet unpaid interim pay increases of 7½ per cent for maids and 5 per cent for janitors, to be effective December 1.

The Local 1695 aim of pay parity means much larger raises, the union noted.

Another union proposal is for year round work, ending school vacation layoffs. University negotiators have agreed if 17 janitor and maid jobs are eliminated.

The union has rejected the staff cutback.

Joining Local 1695 in last week's informational picketing were members of Office & Professional Employees Local 29, Social Services Union Local 535, UC Teaching & Research Assistants Local 1570, Teachers Local 1474, the UC Faculty union; UC Librarians Local 1795 and the Oakland Federation of Teachers.

WALTER BANKS, longtime financial secretary of Machinists Lodge 284 has retired and was succeeded by Jim Moran.

3 seeking Steel district post at election Tuesday

The 90,000 Steelworker members in the union's District 38 will choose among three candidates next Tuesday in the election for district director to succeed the late Joe Angelo.

Contesting for the post are Tom Consiglio of Los Angeles, district legislative and education director, and two staff men, Maclovio R. Barraza, of Tucson, Arizona, and Frank S. McKee, of Seattle.

Ballots are to be counted at Steelworkers headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, 10 days after the election.

Angelo died in Cleveland, Ohio, last September 15 while en route to a Steelworkers international meeting in Washington. His place has been filled since his death by Lester Thornton as temporary director. Thornton is former acting district director.

District 38 covers 13 western states, with its headquarters in Los Angeles.

Musicians 510 set banquet Sunday

Member of South County Musicians Local 510 will be guests of the union at its annual banquet Sunday at the International Kitchen on Peralta Boulevard, Fremont.

Officers will be installed at the affair. They are President W. L. Berges, Vice President John L. Fields, Secretary-Treasurer Sam Zagami, Business Agent William J. Castro and Sergeant-at-Arms Frank Sylvester, and newly elected executive board members.

No-host cocktails will be served at 4:30 p.m. and dinner will be at 6.

Jack Hall, ILWU leader, dead at 56

Jack W. Hall, ILWU vice president and for more than 20 years the union's regional director in Hawaii, died January 2 in his San Francisco home after suffering a stroke. He was 56.

Pacific Coast and Hawaiian longshoremen stopped work for 15 minutes January 7 as a memorial observance.

In his years in Hawaii, Hall organized sugar and pineapple plantation workers. In 1949 he led a bitter six-month Hawaiian longshore strike.

He became an international vice president in 1969, succeeding J. R. Robertson.

Hall is survived by his wife, Yoshiko, a son Eric and a daughter Michele, the wife of San Francisco Assemblyman John Burton.

Hawaii Governor John Burns, San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto and ILWU President Harry Bridges praised Hall as a hard-hitting advocate of union members.

Big boost in jobless pay claims seen

With nearly 5,000,000 workers unemployed, the Labor Department predicted that unemployment compensation benefits could reach $4,900,000,000 for fiscal 1971—nearly double the $2,800,000,000 paid unemployed workers in 1970.

Even if there is a marked improvement in the economy during the balance of fiscal 1971, jobless benefits will be high, the report noted.

It said that "a marked improvement" could lower from 4.2 per cent to 3.6 per cent the number of workers who file claims under the federal-state unemployment insurance program.

Benefit expenditures at that level would amount to $4,200,000,000 for the present fiscal year.

Initial claims for unemployment compensation during the week of December 5 totaled 398,600, the highest December volume since 1960.

This was 44,500 higher than the previous week, and 151,600 more than for the comparable week in 1969.

Insured unemployment totaled 2,192,900 during the week ending November 28—202,800 more than the previous week and 1,030,700 more than a year earlier.

making up 16 per cent of the membership jobless last week, invoked its contract prerogative to ban overtime in on-site new construction as of next Tuesday.

Overtime, except for emergencies, may be banned when 10 per cent or more of Local 216's non-shipyard employe members are out of work.

Local 216 Business Manager Fred Harmon said, with jobs finishing and few starting, Sheet Metal unemployment was likely to grow.

A Carpenters Local 36 spokesman estimated 30 per cent unemployment and comparable figures came from a number of other construction unions.

The continuing recession had implemented the new federal extended unemployment benefits law.

Workers who have exhausted their benefits and have not reached the end of their benefit year may apply to the State

Human Resources Development Department for extended benefits, which last half the term of their original benefits.

Workers whose benefits are exhausted and whose benefit year ended before December 20 are not eligible.

However, if the jobless percentage in covered employment—over-all jobless figures include workers uncovered by unemployment insurance—reaches 6 per cent, they will be eligible for extended benefits under a companion state law.

The federal extended benefit program became effective when the jobless rate in covered employment reached 4 per cent.

California unemployed totalled 619,000 in December and 85,300 Bay Area workers were jobless, marking a 4,600 increase from November and totalling 27,300 more than in December, 1969.

Non-white unemployment nationally reached 9.3 per cent. Factory workers had a 7.5 per cent jobless rate, in the nation.

Imports cut jobs for 400 in Michigan

The Labor Department has certified about 400 Michigan members of the Furniture Workers as eligible for trade adjustment assistance because they lost their jobs or were laid off as the result of piano imports.

The Everett Piano Company at South Haven, Michigan, cut the jobs of 60 workers in July, 1969 and has since laid off for temporary periods up to 350 workers.

The union petitioned the Labor Department last October for certification of eligibility for benefits under the Trade Expansion Act of 1962.

Weekly payments up to $35 a week, testing, counseling, training and job placement are among the benefits provided.

The payments are limited to 52 weeks, but may be extended up to 26 additional weeks for workers to complete training courses. Workers who were over 60 when they lost their jobs may get payments for an additional 13 weeks.

Reagan judge bans suit was illegal—the same grounds as Judge Minder's decision.

But last January, the District Court held that "any agreement that the public agency is authorized to make and, in fact, does enter into, should be held as valid and binding as to all parties."

The strikers were members of then East Bay Municipal Employees Union, now United Public Employees Local 390. They walked out in late 1966 after futile negotiations over pay, work loads and staffing, and returned January 10, 1967 under the agreement. County hospital employees have since transferred to Hospital Workers Local 250.

Union attorney Victor Van Bourg hailed the 1970 District Court ruling as a landmark decision. His associate, Stewart Weinberg, said this week that Minder's decision will be appealed—right back to the District Court.
